ABSTRACT

The Southwest Network was created to provide support for developing Chicano alternative schools. It strives to facilitate approaches, problems, contacts, funding, and communication for any alternative Chicano educational efforts requesting such aid. In this process, the Network has prepared an initial directory of Chicano alternative schools, distributing centers, and related publications. Information is based on replies to inquiries during October and November 1973. For logistical purposes, the directory is divided into 4 geographic regions, and then subdivided by state. Approximately 13 alternative education programs and 28 distributing centers are listed. The partial publication listing covers 25 journals. Defunct publications are also given. (KM)

Directorio Chicano

A listing of Chicano alternative schools, distributing centers are related publications will never be complete, but this is an attempt at initiating such a directory. Information contained here is based on replies to inquiries during October and November of 1973. An updated, more comprehensive edition of this directory is planned for May of 1974, therefore any additions and corrections are encouraged. They should be directed to the Southwest Network, 1020 B Street, Hayward, California 94514, (415) 886-1118.

As more and more Chicanos search for the identity uncovered by an expounding awareness of a smothered past, many crave for the insight into materials (new and old) that can nurture certain philosophies and beliefs. This leaflet intends to provide you with some direction of where to turn when seeking Chicano related materials.

For purposes of logistics, we divide our directory by regions, and specifically by states.
